

Performance Review and Development Program Cycle

The Performance Review and Development Program (PRDP)

is the University's performance management process whereby strategic priorities and objectives are aligned to the performance and professional development of employees.

The PRDP cycle is a seven step cycle consisting of three stages:

Stage 1 – Performance and Professional Development Planning (October to February)

Stage 2 – Monitoring Objectives (March to September)

Stage 3 – Performance and Professional Development Review (October to December)
