What Is betting in sport?

- ⌚ Sports betting is a form of gambling that entails placing a wager, also known as a bet, on the outcome of a sporting event in an attempt to win additional money.
- ⌚ Typically a bet will have two possible outcomes. Either you win a profit based on the bookmaker odds, or you lose your wager.
- ⌚ The bookmaker sets odds on sporting outcomes based on the probability of it occurring, and then offers a return on the wager placed based on how likely the outcome seems.

BASA Policy Goals

The Howard Government's strategy to achieve excellence in sports management was intended to improve the professional delivery of sport to:

- A. Increase membership numbers at the grass root level
- B. Increase NSO's ability to raise funds and become less dependant on government funding
- C. Increase international successes of athletes, including winning more gold medals.

Notes 6

B. The Howard Government focus was to work with National Sporting Organisations to become more professional in their management of their sport by mandating NSOs increase memberships and sponsorship.

What worked and what didn't!
