I welcome and congratulate you as a commencing student of Federation University Australia (FedUni).

FedUni is one of the nation’s leading regionally based universities. FedUni has had a strong tradition of providing excellent, relevant education and training spanning more than 145 years. We were the nation’s first regional, multi-sector university and are the third oldest higher learning institution in Australia.

We offer a range of higher education, vocational training, secondary schooling and research opportunities. With campuses in Ballarat, Berwick, Gippsland and the Wimmera, we also deliver programs online and via a range of partner institutes across Australia and around the world.

For some of you, this is your first experience of living away from your home country and I am sure you have many questions about Australia, Victoria and this university. When you received this guide on your Orientation day, you will have met some of our friendly and helpful students and staff – please feel free to ask them anything.

Reading this student guide is another great way to find out more and I recommend you take the time to explore it. It contains information about your local area and your university campus; provides useful hints and tips on how to succeed at FedUni and directs you where to go for services and support, both at university and in the community. I want you to feel confident in your surroundings, safe in the knowledge that FedUni staff are available and happy to assist.

The Good Universities Guide has recently awarded FedUni 5 stars out of 5 for Student Support, and one of our key strengths is the personal contact with staff across campuses. You will get to know your lecturers, school and support staff during your time with us and I invite you to ask questions, and to bring your experience and knowledge to your courses.

You are joining a modern university that is regional in focus, national in scope and international in reach. Federation University Australia provides our students with every opportunity to reach their potential and to succeed.

The success of your time with FedUni is not just in the grades you earn, but is also in the experience you have while you are here - this largely depends on you. There are many events and programs outside of your academic study, which will help you to settle in and get to know other people. I urge you to participate in the social and cultural opportunities on offer, as these not only improve your English skills but also offer opportunities for increased networks and lifelong friendships.

I wish you success as you begin your experience at FedUni and I look forward to seeing you on campus.

Regards,

Professor Helen Bartlett
Vice-Chancellor and President, Federation University Australia
Welcome
You will see a lot of the Multicultural Student Services team over the first few weeks of the semester as we conduct international orientation days and host your social and cultural program.

Attending these programs is important and is a vital part of your university experience. The first weeks of living in Australia can feel very strange and at times lonely for new students. Adjusting to a new environment, people and way of going about your day is both exciting and scary for some. Here are two simple pieces of advice;

‘Ask if you don’t know’. The Multicultural Student Services team will answer your questions and help you to get the best start to your time at FedUni.

‘Say Yes’ to all opportunities to meet other students and to improve your English.

The first few days and weeks after arriving in Australia, and at your new campus, you can expect to feel both excited and unsure.

There may be many things to arrange and questions that you have. Using this guide will address many of the questions but always remember that there are friendly staff, students and locals who will readily talk to you about what Australia has to offer.

Car Insurance

There are many types of car insurance available to protect you from the costs associated with a car collision. If you do drive, make sure the car you are driving has insurance.

Unless you obtain Third Party Property, Fire & Theft Insurance, you will be liable for any damage your car causes to another vehicle or property in an accident. For example, if the car you are driving hits a brand new Mercedes Benz and the cost to fix the Mercedes is AUD$20,000, then you will have to pay this amount unless you have Third Party Insurance. This includes if you’re driving someone else’s car and they have no insurance. For information on Third Party Insurance please contact: Royal Automobile Association of Victoria (RACV). - Obtain the other driver’s name, address, telephone number, car registration number, type of insurance cover and name of insurance company. Provide similar information about yourself to the other driver.
- Note the other driver’s car type, colour and damage incurred. It is recommended to always take photographs of the accident scene and vehicles involved as supporting evidence.
- Obtain name, address and contact number of any witnesses to the accident.
- If there are no witnesses, and there is the possibility of some dispute over who caused the accident, phone the police and ask them to attend.
- Call your insurance provider and inform them of the accident details.

The Victoria Legal Aid service can provide free basic legal advice over the phone, so if you do have any concerns, please contact them on 1300 792 387.

Bargaining
In most retail shops, such as food and clothing shops, the goods are sold according to the price at which they are marked.

When buying larger items such as a fridge, vacuum cleaner, TV or bulk quantities, it is normal to ask for a lower price.

This is not seen as ‘haggling’ over the price, but as seeking the best deal. You might ask, ‘What is the best price you can do?’

Communications

Mail system
Australia Post runs Australia’s postal system. Mail is delivered to households several times a week.
Standard letters cost about $1.00 to send domestically. Stamps can be purchased from Australia Post shops or from retailers such as newsagents and convenience stores.
Express Post delivery costs more but ensures your package will arrive the next business day anywhere in Australia.
Each Australian suburb and town is identified by a four-digit post code. Victorian post codes begin with the number 3. It is important to use postcodes in Australian mailing addresses.
For more details on the postal system including the location of postal offices in Victoria, visit the Australia Post website.
auspost.com.au

Telephone
In Australia, there are several telecommunications providers including Telstra, Optus and Vodafone. Providers offer discounts for combining your home phone, mobile phone and internet services.
Local phone calls on a landline in Australia are low cost and not timed. Higher rates apply to long distance domestic and international phone calls and mobile phones – these calls are timed. The caller pays the cost of the call.
International rates vary from country to country and depend on your service provider and your contract. Pre-paid phone cards are often a cost-effective option for international phone calls. These cards can be purchased at newsagents, convenience stores or online.

Mobile phone services
Calls to and from mobile phones are usually more expensive than calls to and from fixed lines. There are several mobile phone service providers offering different phones and packages. Pre-paid mobile phones are also an option.

“ I brought my mobile phone from home, which was handy when I wanted to make the first few calls home to let everyone know I was OK. However, I now have an Australian mobile phone on a plan. ”
Telephone directories

The two main directories are:

- the Yellow Pages – used for business listings and is organised by category of business. www.yellowpages.com.au

Hard copies of each are delivered free of charge to households or can be obtained from Australia Post offices.

Emergency

000 is the emergency number for police, ambulance and fire brigade. This is a free call.

Telephone numbers

- Australia’s international country calling code is +61.
- Victoria’s area code is 03. When calling a Victorian number from overseas, the 0 is dropped, so the code you need to dial is 613 followed by the regular phone number.
- Mobile phone numbers in Australia start with 04. When calling a mobile phone from outside Australia, again the 0 is dropped, so the number starts with +614, and dial the rest of the number as usual.
- To make an international call from Australia, dial 0011 followed by the country code, the area code and then the phone number.
- 1800 phone numbers are free calls from fixed line/home phones. Charges may apply if you call from a mobile phone.
- 13 or 1300 phone numbers are the cost of a local call on a landline from anywhere in Australia.
- 19 or 1900 phone numbers are premium numbers. These are charged by the minute at a higher rate that can vary from around 55c to $5 a minute.

Media

In Australia there is an open and diverse media system. There are countless sources of information. Australians have free access to public radio and television stations, and can purchase extra television channels through cable television.

Newspapers

Daily newspapers in Australia are mostly published within a single state. In Victoria, there are three major daily newspapers – two metropolitan papers, The Age and the Herald Sun, and one national newspaper, The Australian. Ballarat, Gippsland and Berwick all have local papers: The Ballarat Courier, the Latrobe Valley Express and the Berwick Leader. You can read versions of these newspapers online.

Radio

There are a number of radio stations available throughout Victoria. There are two bands of radio, FM and AM. FM has mostly commercial stations playing popular and classical music.

AM radio has alternative music options, talk and community stations. When travelling in Australia ABC radio provides emergency updates regarding weather alerts such as fires.

Television

Australia has both free-to-air and pay (cable) television. Free-to-air television provides a large number of stations including commercial networks, public nationally funded networks and specialty networks.

Pay TV provides additional channels for a monthly fee. Around one quarter of Australians subscribe to pay TV.

Student Learning

Studying in Australia
International students may find that studying in Australia is a different experience than studying in their home country. Lectures, tutorials, laboratories, and self-directed study comprise the total learning experience at Australian universities.

Be a SMART student
We all expect that your time at FedUni will be a happy, successful and fulfilling experience for you; however, sometimes things don’t go quite to plan so it’s a good idea to follow these tips for being a SMART student.

S  Send a follow up email after meetings with your lecturers summarising what has been discussed and agreed; this way you have a record of what’s happened.

M  Make enough time to fully understand and complete your assignments.

A  Ask questions, lots of them, all the time; you may come from an educational system where questions are not encouraged but in Australia it’s expected of you.

R  Relax and enjoy your leisure time; make the most of being here. Join clubs and societies, travel, talk to Aussie students to practice your English.

T  Talk to people who can help you make the right decisions and help you if you are not sure what to do – your lecturers, Multicultural Student Services, Student Advisory Service, PASS and ASK… we are all here to help you make a success of your time at FedUni.

HELPFUL TIP
We highly recommend checking your emails every day. People in Australia use it frequently. If you check it daily, you won’t miss anything. You can also link your uni email with your personal email.
Assessment

You will find that assessment processes and procedures used in Australian universities are very different from what you may be accustomed to. Assessment is considered to be part of the learning process and the form of assessment will vary for each subject studied. Details of assessment tasks and processes are included in all FedUni Course Descriptions. Assessable tasks may include some or all of the following:

• Examination
• Seminars (Groups/Individual)
• Test
• Class Participation
• Assignment (e.g. Essay/Report)
• Group Work
• Tutorials
• Laboratory Work

It is your responsibility to read thoroughly the information given in the Course Descriptions.

Extension to the timelines given for assessable tasks will only be allowed under certain circumstances such as medical or other relevant circumstances.

Proof of exceptional circumstances must be provided at the time of the request for the extension. Students should use the ‘Higher Education Special Consideration Procedure’.

Results

Student results will be published at the end of the semester. You can access an online transcript of your results via: http://federation.edu.au/current-students/essential-info/administration/exams/results

Lectures
Lectures are held once or twice each week, and convey the core information to be covered for that week. All students enrolled in the unit will attend lectures as a group.

Academic Staff
If you are experiencing difficulties with your studies, discuss this with your lecturer, tutor, or student learning staff. Most lecturers have timetables on their office door indicating when they are available to meet with students. Alternatively, email your lecturer to set-up an appointment.

English Conversation
English Conversation is run by student volunteers to help you increase your skills and confidence when having conversations in English. In a friendly and informal setting you will get to practise your conversational English, learn new words and get an even better understanding of Australian culture. Stuff Students Need to Know
Stuff Students Need to Know is a blog written by the student leaders that run the ASK service. These leaders write posts frequently to help out with student life. You can find a range of advice here, including study tips, time management, and even how to defer exams. The blog is written by students who have been through this before and offer advice based around their own experience. You can get to the blog simply by going to: www.askstudents.edublogs.org

“It is a different educational system compared to my country and Aussie accents made me confused in the first few weeks. I had to submit one essay in the fourth week, my main problem was referencing, and by attending the library workshops my problem was solved.”
PASS (Peer Assisted Study Sessions)
PASS is for everyone. PASS provides Peer Assisted Study Sessions, where students work together to reinforce key concepts and develop effective study strategies. Whether you are a top performer or could use some improvement, you will benefit from the skills and understanding you will gain from attending PASS. Please be sure to check your email on a regular basis. If you do not know how to use email, the ‘help desk’ staff in the library can show you. If you prefer to use a personal email account (hotmail, gmail, etc.) you can ‘auto-forward’ your student emails directly to your personal account.
Campus Support

Tax File Number
All adults in Australia who earn an income are required to register with the Australian Taxation Office (ATO). It is recommended that students who plan to stay in Australia for more than one semester, and particularly those who wish to seek paid work, obtain a Tax File Number (TFN). If you do not have a TFN you will be taxed at the highest rate on any income you may earn. Tax File Number application forms are available online at www.ato.gov.au
Final Grade Appeals
If you believe that your marks have been affected by circumstances beyond your control or the course hasn’t been delivered correctly, you might want to appeal your final grade. Very strict timelines apply to final grade appeals as you only have 10 working days (i.e. not including weekends or when the university is closed) after your results have been published and only limited factors will be taken into account. For help with final grade appeals contact the Student Advisory Service.

Please see our webpage for contact details: www.federation.edu.au/studentadviser
Don’t delay – timelines apply.

Special Consideration
Eligibility
Applications for Special Consideration – General will only be considered on the following grounds:

> Medical Reasons: e.g., hospital admission, serious injury, severe asthma, severe anxiety or depression. Does not include minor illness.

> Compassionate Grounds: e.g., death of significant other, significant relationship breakdown.

> Hardship/trauma: e.g., victim of crime, sudden loss of income or employment, severe disruptions to domestic arrangements.

> Other Causes: e.g., military or jury service, service to emergency services such as the Country Fire Authority.

Circumstances within the student’s control (e.g. returning home, holidays, social or family occasions, usual demands of employment, difficulties with the English language) and minor ailments (e.g. headaches, colds, sleeplessness, gastric upsets, normal period pain) will not be accepted as grounds for special consideration. Religious or faith-based issues are also not in themselves grounds for special consideration, although they may be used to support an application on other, valid grounds.

There are strict timelines and paperwork that needs to be completed if you are applying for Higher Education Special Consideration; it is not always awarded so it is important to make sure that the forms have all been completed and the necessary evidence supplied. (Search the FedUni website for ‘Special Consideration”).

Generally, unless it’s clearly a medical issue, students go to the Counselling Service for help with Special Consideration.

To make an appointment please use the online booking system: www.federation.edu.au/studentadviser unsatisfactory progress

Under Australian law, the university is obliged to track your progress and make sure that you are successfully completing your studies. If there are signs that you are not doing so well you will receive a letter or email (usually both), warning you that your performance is unsatisfactory and asking you to meet with a relevant staff member, often a Course or Program Coordinator.

Do not ignore this letter.

It is extremely important that you follow up and go to the meeting as it is designed to help you get back on track with your studies. If you continue to do poorly your place in the program and your visa are at risk.

Exclusion

If the measures taken following your warning of unsatisfactory progress haven’t been successful and you have failed some courses, you will receive a letter warning you that you will be excluded.

Do not ignore this letter; your place and your visa are at risk.

You may have grounds to appeal the exclusion but you will have to act fast as timelines apply. You will have 20 working days to appeal the exclusion. Please note that working days do not include weekends or when the university is closed e.g. the two week shutdown over the Christmas break.

Contact the Student Advisory Service for assistance. Please see our webpage for contact details: www.federation.edu.au/studentadviser

Don’t delay – timelines apply.

Complaints or Student Grievance

If you have a complaint, concern or enquiry about the way something is going, most issues can be dealt with by making an appointment to talk to the person who can solve your problem, for example, your lecturer. It is very important that you keep a record of everything that’s being discussed. The Student Advisory Service can help you prepare for a meeting or go to a meeting with you. If this approach doesn’t work then more formal steps can be taken. For further advice and support contact the Student Advisory Service for assistance. Please see our webpage for contact details: www.federation.edu.au/studentadviser

Your rights & responsibilities

Education Service for Overseas Students (ESOS) Act
The Federation University of Australia is bound by the ESOS Act 2000. This Act sets out the legal framework for the delivery of education to overseas students.

Visas
All overseas students are required to have an International Student Visa issued by the Australian Government. Student visas are issued for full-time study on the understanding that the student studies on-campus and has sufficient funds to cover tuition fees and living expenses while in Australia. For further information regarding student visa applications, please visit: www.border.gov.au/Trav/Stud

The Student Visa is a multiple entry visa which allows a student to enter and leave the country for holidays during a program of study. It is valid for the entire length of your program. You will only need to renew it if you have changed your program, or are taking more time to complete your program. If you are required to renew your Student Visa, it is important to renew it prior to the expiry of your current visa.

ESOS protects your rights, including:
- your right to receive current and accurate information about the courses, fees, modes of study and other information before enrolling
- your right to sign a written agreement (your Federation University Australia ‘International Student Course Agreement’) with your provider before or as you pay fees, setting out the services to be provided, fees payable and information about refunds of course money. You should keep a copy of your written agreement with Federation University Australia
- your right to get the education you paid for. The ESOS framework includes consumer protection that will allow you to receive a refund or to be placed in another course if your provider is unable to teach your course
Students must comply with their visa conditions in order to retain their visa.

The university is obliged to report a student to immigration if not complying with his / her visa conditions:

- You must provide the university with your address or change of address details within seven days of arrival or change of address;
- Do not take a leave of absence without university approval;
- You must meet program requirements. Performance would be considered unsatisfactory if a student fails 50% or more of enrolled courses in two consecutive semesters or fails a core course more than once – a student may then be excluded from study which may lead to visa cancellation.
- You must maintain satisfactory attendance in your program.
- You must not undertake employment above the maximum number of hours permitted on a student visa.
- You must maintain Overseas Student Health Cover (OSHC) during your stay in Australia.

If you need to extend your visa in order to complete your course or to study other courses in Australia, you must submit your application before your current visa expires. A fee is charged for this process. Your application will need to include the results of a health check if you have not had one done in the previous 12 months (a fee is charged for this process), a financial statement and academic transcripts.

Full Time Studies

A normal load for a full time FedUni student is 120 credit points of study in one academic year or 60 credit points per semester. This usually equates to four x 15 credit point courses per semester.

Only in compassionate and compelling circumstances may international students be enrolled in less than 100% of a normal full time load. This must be approved in advance, or at the time of enrolment, by the School.

Attendance

Attendance is an important element of your success in your studies, and regular attendance at all lectures and tutorials is expected.

Students who fail to meet attendance requirements as specified in Course Descriptions, may be asked to meet with their Program Coordinator to explain. Students may appeal any formal notification of intention to report to Department of Immigration and Border Protection (DIBP) via the university’s complaints and appeals procedures.
Deferment or Leave from Studies
All commencing students who have been given a formal written offer by FedUni and who have not yet enrolled may have the option to defer this offer for one teaching period (6 months) to a maximum of two teaching periods (12 months). Students who enrol in the university may apply to defer or take leave from studies on the grounds of compassionate and compelling circumstances.

For more information on deferring, please see the following link: https://federation.edu.au/international/student-support/future-students/international-student-support/international-compliance/deferring,-suspending-or-cancelling-enrolment

Leave: Students may apply for leave from their studies under limited circumstances (compassionate or compelling circumstances). These could include:

- Illness, where a medical certificate states that you were unable to attend classes
- The death of a close family member such as a parent or grandparent (where possible a copy of a death certificate should be provided)
- Major political upheaval or natural disaster in the home country requiring emergency travel and where this has impacted on your studies
- A traumatic experience which could include involvement in, or witnessing of a serious accident; or witnessing or being the victim of a serious crime and this has impacted on your studies (supported by police and psychologists reports)
- Where the university was unable to offer a pre-requisite course
- Inability to begin study on the program commencement date due to delay in receiving a student visa

For more information on Special Consideration, please see the following link: www.federation.edu.au/special-consideration

You must seek advice from your School about the impact of taking leave on your study and visa requirements before taking any action.

Where deferral or leave is approved, any fee refund will be determined in accordance with the FedUni refund policy for international students.

Fees Payment and Refund Terms
You are covered by the FedUni Tuition Fees Payment Terms for International Students and Refund for International Students policy.

A refund of tuition fees will be granted only in accordance with the university’s Refund for International Students policy. Please refer to the following website for further details: http://policy.federation.edu.au/esos/standard_3/

Change of Education Provider
Students who wish to study at another Education Provider must request a Transfer between Registered Providers (Release Letter) if they have not completed six calendar months of their principal course of study.

Students must demonstrate exceptional circumstances justifying the change of provider. Exceptional circumstances can include:

- Ongoing medical condition
- Loss or Bereavement
- Hardship/trauma
- Educational progression problems

For further information please contact staff at the International Admissions Office located in ‘A Building’ Mt Helen Campus or call +61 3 5327 6775.

It takes time to settle

Culture shock
Most students who travel overseas to live and study in a new country will experience some emotional disturbance in response to their new circumstances. This reaction is often referred to as ‘culture shock’.

Everything that you see and experience – the countryside, the weather, people, food and buildings – will be new and may seem different in the beginning. It will take time to adapt to your new surroundings. Culture shock is the feeling of disorientation, loneliness, insecurity or confusion that can occur when someone leaves his or her home country to live in a new culture. Culture shock may come with any of the following symptoms:

- Homesickness
- Loneliness
- Depression
- Need for more sleep than normal
- Withdrawal from social activities
- Compulsive eating or loss of appetite
- Stereotyping of and hostility towards host nationals
- Lack of energy

Does everyone experience culture shock?
For some people culture shock is brief and may not even be noticed. Many people, however, may have to deal with culture shock over several weeks or possibly months. If when you feel you experience some of the above symptoms, do not feel ashamed. It happens to nearly everyone who comes to live in a foreign culture.
Australia and Australians

Australia is a diverse nation with a multicultural population. Some of the social customs in Australia are similar to English/American background or social behaviour. When in a new culture, it is a good idea to observe the habits and customs of other people because they may express their feelings differently from people of your own culture. At Federation University Australia, you will have many opportunities to develop new friendships and to become involved in social activities or participate in sporting activities. During this time you will also develop a greater understanding of yourself and of other people. It is also important to have confidence in your own traditional values — Australia has a broad multicultural population where other cultural traditions are respected.

To experience a degree of homesickness and loneliness is normal.

Getting involved in university events, such as the International Orientation or the main FedUni Orientation Social Program is a great way to make some new friends and begin to feel more settled. If you are feeling unsettled, or unhappy, you are encouraged to speak with Multicultural Student Services staff.

Conversation topics

When meeting people for the first time, in general, the following topics are discussed: weather, sport, work, study, films, music and hobbies. Topics typically reserved for friends include personal relationships, politics and religion. However this should not be read as a set of rules for interacting in Australia. It is important that topics of interest to you are discussed too.

Issues addressed by the Australian media may be somewhat surprising if media in your home country does not report matters of politics, sex and religion. In Australia these topics are often discussed on television and in newspapers. Public debate, about such subjects, is considered appropriate.

Equal opportunity

Australians believe in equal opportunity. Women are entitled to the same rights, status and opportunities as men. People who work in non-professional jobs, such as cleaners and truck drivers are entitled to the same respect as those who work in professional jobs. In Australia we have laws that protect people from discrimination based on:

- race, colour, national or ethnic origin, nationality
- sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, marital status, pregnancy or potential pregnancy, breastfeeding, status as a parent or carer, lawful sexual activity
- religious or political belief or activity, industrial activity
- age, physical features, disability (past, present or imputed), medical record
- personal association with someone identified by reference to any of the above.

When I first arrived I felt like my world had been turned upside down. Everything felt different. But it didn’t take me long to adapt because I got involved in activities, I talked to as many people as I could and I spent time getting to know other people even from outside my degree.

I feel homesickness most when there are family events that I’m missing or there are faith festivals. I use skype to chat with my family, see their faces and that makes things a little easier.

Social customs

Names
Most Australians have three names. A first name, for example Peter (The name used informally – ‘Hi Peter’); a middle name such as George; and a surname or family name, such as Smith. (Used in formal situations and often when a person is senior to you, for example ‘Mr. Smith, I’d like to introduce you to Mr. Allan’).

Your naming system may differ from this; however, for the sake of clarity it is important that on official documents you always use the same names in the same order. It is a good idea to underline your family name, e.g. Wong Fei Wan.

If you are wondering what to call someone, simply ask: ‘What would you like me to call you?’ When you first meet someone it is also appropriate to tell them the name that you prefer to be called.

Informality
Australians often use shortened versions of names e.g. Ronald may be shortened to Ron or Ronnie, Elizabeth to Liz, Lizzy, Beth, or Betty.

Courtesy
Greetings such as ‘Good morning/afternoon’, ‘Hello’, ‘G’day’ and ‘How are you?’ are used commonly even among strangers. It is also usual and expected that you say ‘excuse me’ to attract someone’s attention, when joining in conversations or to be excused from a conversation or meal, ‘please’ when requesting something; and ‘thank you’ when something is done or handed to you. Otherwise, your behaviour may seem very impolite.

Queues
People form queues to buy goods in shops, to wait for service in banks and when waiting for public transport. Pushing in front of someone in a queue is considered very impolite and will not be tolerated. Australians also value their personal space and privacy. Thus, it is appropriate for you to give more space when queuing, while waiting for your turn at a bank ATM or standing or talking in close proximity to other people.
Appointments
It is usual practice for you to make an appointment to see someone at the university or even before dropping in socially at someone’s home.

Invitations
If you are invited formally or even informally (in person or over the phone) to functions, it is polite to reply as soon as possible. Formal invitations usually have a reply (RSVP) date and replies are expected by the date stated. If you have accepted an invitation and later find you cannot attend, it is good manners to inform the person who invited you of this change. It is also considered polite to say directly if you do not want to accept an invitation.

Punctuality
Punctuality is important. Check your appointment times and locations and allow enough time for travel. If you cannot keep an appointment or you are running late, contact the person you’re meeting and let them know.

Dress code
People tend to dress casually at university and during summer clothing is often kept to a minimum. Please note that it is acceptable for women in Australia to wear shorts and brief tops without being considered provocative or immoral. Formal attire may be required occasionally but would be indicated in advance.

Social gatherings
Social functions such as barbeques, dinners or parties are common and can be held in private homes, parks, restaurants or function centres. Sometimes it can be ‘BYO’ which means ‘bring your own’ drinks or your own meat for a barbeque. Alternatively, it can be a ‘bring a plate’ gathering where each guest brings a plate of food to be shared by everyone. If it is in a restaurant, most of the time the cost of the meals are shared equally.

Alcohol
Alcohol consumption is prohibited in public spaces such as footpaths, streets and public car parks. On the spot fines will be issued to people drinking alcohol in prohibited places by patrolling Police.

Physical contact
Handshakes are commonly used to greet each other or say goodbye especially among men. Women display greater physical contact by hugging and greeting each other with a kiss on the cheek. You will also see displays of affection such as hugging, kissing and holding hands between couples in public.

Opening of gifts
While in some cultures, opening a gift/present in front of the person is considered rude, it is just the opposite in Australia. When accepting a gift, you can open it immediately and express your appreciation.

Join the Multicultural Student Services team at English Conversation Class. Check your campus for times and location.
Body Language and Personal Space
People of every culture have particular ways of using their hands, eyes, arms and even standing, that have meaning within that culture. A gesture may mean one thing within one culture but something entirely different in another.

For example, when an Australian is talking to someone, he/she will usually look that person in the eye. We think this shows that we are sincere and are giving the other person our full attention. In some other cultures this would be considered impolite. Likewise, handing someone something with the left hand is an insult in some countries. In Australia, we use either hand to pass things.

When talking, Australians don’t stand very close to each other. Nor do they touch each other as much as people from some other cultures do. If you are staying with an Australian family, do not enter the bedrooms of family members unless invited to do so. These are regarded as personal space.

Relationships
Young people in Australia are sometimes portrayed as being sexually promiscuous. Do not assume that this is the case. It is quite normal in Western cultures for relationships to develop slowly.

Sometimes people misunderstand each other in social relationships. Someone that you go out with may think that you are willing to have sex because you let them kiss you or are willing to have them visit you alone in your room.

In Australia, if you do not want to have sexual intercourse with someone, you always have the right to say ‘no’. Although this can sometimes be difficult and people can sometimes persist when they should not, your rights remain constant. To protect people from rape or sexual activity without consent, there are severe legal penalties for those who commit such crimes.

Smoking
Federation University Australia is a smoke-free environment.

The university recognises the adverse effects of smoking, including passive smoking, and the rights of staff and students to work and study in a safe and healthy environment which is smoke-free.

Smoking is not allowed on public transport, in restaurants, cinemas and public buildings. You can be fined for smoking in prohibited areas. If you are at someone’s home, it is polite to excuse yourself and smoke outside.

Tipping
Australia does not have a strong tipping culture. However, some people leave tips in restaurants and cafés if the service is good.

Independence
Very few Australians have servants. Most people are independent and cook and clean for themselves. Some people may pay a person to come to their home once a week to help with domestic tasks. Manual work is not looked down upon and it is common to see men and women alike doing various chores around the house or garden.

LGBTIQ
In Australia, individuals who identify as Lesbian, Gay, Bisexual, Trans, Intersex or Queer (LGBTIQ) are welcomed and accepted in society, and considered equal. Same-sex relationships are normal, as are public displays of affection between members of the same sex. Australia is a culture where everyone is encouraged to express their own personal identity. If you have any questions about LGBTIQ matters, please contact equity@federation.edu.au

Rainbow Collective is a support group for LGBTIQ students studying at FedUni, as well as any friends of the University. It is a club that is run by students, for students and hosts a number of small events and social gatherings throughout the year. Contact: facebook.com/fedunirainbowcollective
Your safety

Being prepared and taking precautions will reduce your chances of becoming a victim of crime. Australia is generally a safe country but like many countries, crime does occur and certain times and places are less safe.

In offering this information it is not our intention to make you worried, rather we want to give you some helpful advice to protect yourself and your possessions. The main idea is to use common sense – take extra care at night, don’t walk around alone in dark or isolated places, keep your house and vehicle secure and be alert and aware of what or who is around you.

When you’re out

• Maintain a confident appearance. Stay alert and walk with your eyes raised.
• Be aware of your surroundings. Take note of street names and who is around. Most attacks occur early in the morning or late at night when there are not many people on the street.
• At night, if possible, keep to major well-lit streets and avoid dark areas or short cuts. It is not safe to walk alone at night.
• If you think you are being followed, walk close to the road, or cross to the other side. If you are sure you are being followed, use your mobile and contact the police or a taxi, or go to the nearest house and ask the occupants to call for you.
• When using an ATM look around first to make sure that nobody is watching you. Put your money away immediately; never count it at the ATM.
• Be especially alert and cautious in the ‘nightclub district’ at night time. Alcohol and drug fuelled violence is more likely to take place in such areas.
• Racial and sexual harassment and abuse is not acceptable. If you experience racial or sexual harassment or abuse, report it to your local Police Station immediately.

At home

• Always lock up. Doors and windows should be locked, not only when you are out of the house, but when you are elsewhere, even in your garden or back yard.
• Plan ahead for absences or holidays. Never leave your house obviously unoccupied, even briefly. Arrange for a friend to clear your letter box.

When using public transport

• Check timetables in advance – avoid long waits at platforms and taxi ranks, particularly in the evening. Stay in well-lit areas or wait near local shops. Stand where you can be seen.
• Where possible sit with others or travel with a friend.
• If you are being harassed or assaulted, shout loudly to draw attention to yourself.

When driving

• If a driver ahead of you deliberately forces you to stop by braking or blocking the road, do not turn off the engine as you may stall when trying to restart.
• If the driver gets out of the car and comes towards you, remain in your car with doors locked and windows shut. Sound your horn and flash your lights.
• Consider the area you are parking in if not returning to your car until after dark. Does the area have adequate lighting, is it isolated or dark? Don’t park in an isolated or dark position.
• Remove wallets/purses, packages or other easily stolen items from easy view within the car.
• When returning to your car, have the keys in your hand for quick access.

Rely on your instinct.
If you feel unsafe, be alert. Remove yourself from the situation to somewhere safe.
