1: Introduction

This Report has been produced by the Department of Education and Training for training providers, and summarises vocational education and training (VET) needs for the Hume region.

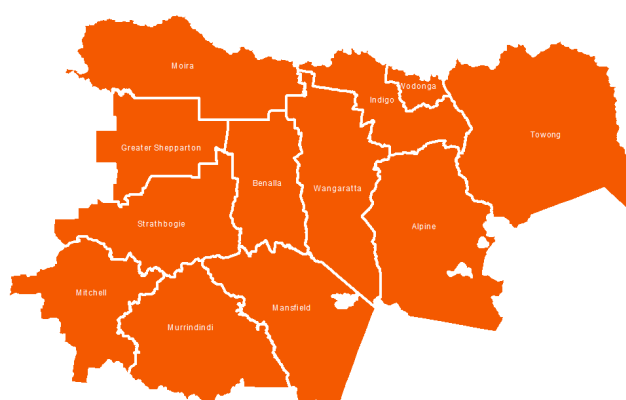

This year's Report is a little different to previous Jobs and Training Needs Reports, in recognition of the ongoing and significant impacts that COVID-19 has had on the Victorian economy. There remains a great deal of uncertainty about the path of economic recovery, as the public health situation and restrictions continue to evolve.

This year's Report focuses on some of the broader context, challenges and trends that training providers should consider, in addition to the usual factors, when thinking about future training needs for specific occupations in the Hume region.

As always, this Report should be considered in conjunction with the Funded Course List for 2021, which lists courses available for government subsidy and targets those courses that will yield the most value to the Victorian economy and community. The Funded Course List 2021 will assist training providers to align their proposed delivery in 2021 with government objectives for the Victorian TAFE and training system.

The Department invites feedback on the usefulness of the data presented in the Jobs and Training Needs Reports through the following link: <https://www.surveymonkey.com/r/JTNR2021>. Any comments received will be used to help improve the Jobs and Training Needs Reports in future years.

Hume region refers to the following Local Government Areas:

- Alpine
- Benalla
- Greater Shepparton
- Indigo
- Mansfield
- Mitchell
- Moira
- Murrindindi
- Strathbogie
- Towong
- Wangaratta
- Wodonga

HOW TO USE THIS REPORT

Section 2: Overview of the labour market and training activity provides contextual training market and employment information about the Hume region.

Section 3: Industry view provides a snapshot of the employment outlook and recovery trajectories for industries within the Hume region.

Section 4: Occupations in demand and related skills shows courses that contribute to the training and skill requirements of different occupations, particularly those linked to government objectives.

Section 5: Courses for community and industry need shows courses that do not correspond to occupations such as foundation skill courses and courses that contribute to industry (but not specific occupations). While these courses are not directly linked to an occupation, they are nonetheless important because they support engagement and pathways.

2: Overview of the labour market and training activity

THE LABOUR MARKET AND COVID-19

This year to date has seen almost unprecedented disruption to the Victorian labour market, driven by COVID-19. 134,600 jobs have been lost in Victoria since the beginning of March 2020 (Figure 1). March was a milestone month, when Australia reached 100 COVID-19 cases and a global pandemic was declared by the World Health Organisation. Job gains in June and July this year have not been sufficient to overcome the significant losses in April and May.

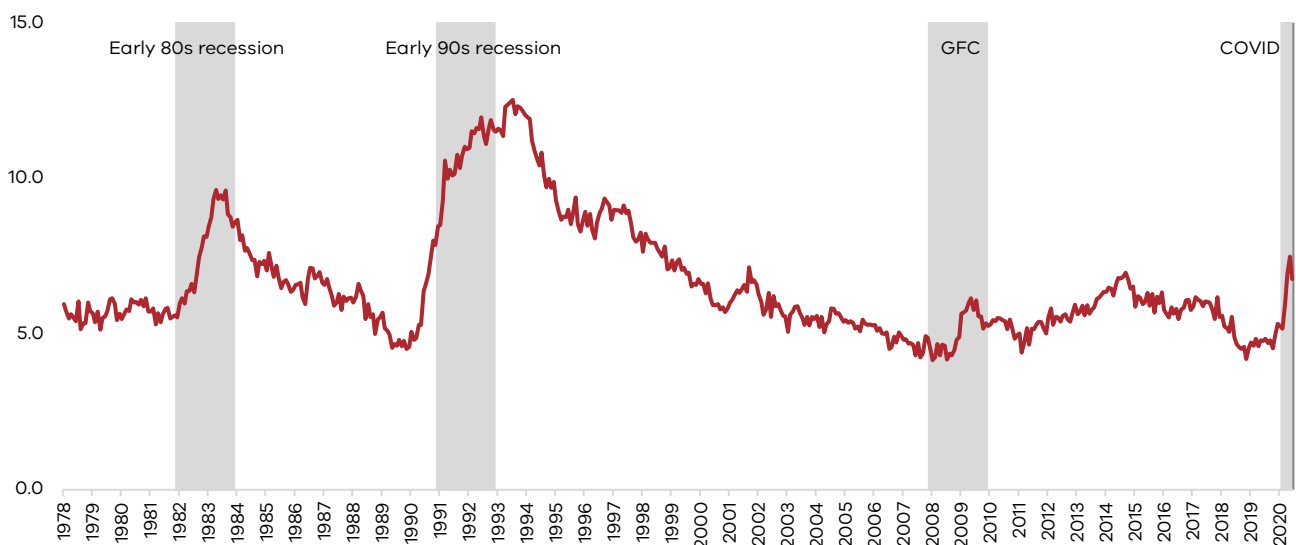

Fig. 1 Number of people employed in Victoria (000's, seasonally adjusted)

Source: Australian Bureau of Statistics.

Unemployment in Victoria climbed to 6.8 per cent in July 2020, its highest level since the recession of the early 90's (Figure 2). The further 85,800 individuals across Victoria who stopped searching for a job since February 2020 are not included in the unemployment figures. Of those who are currently employed, 13.9 per cent said that they would like to work more hours (underemployed).

Fig. 2 Victorian unemployment (% , seasonally adjusted)

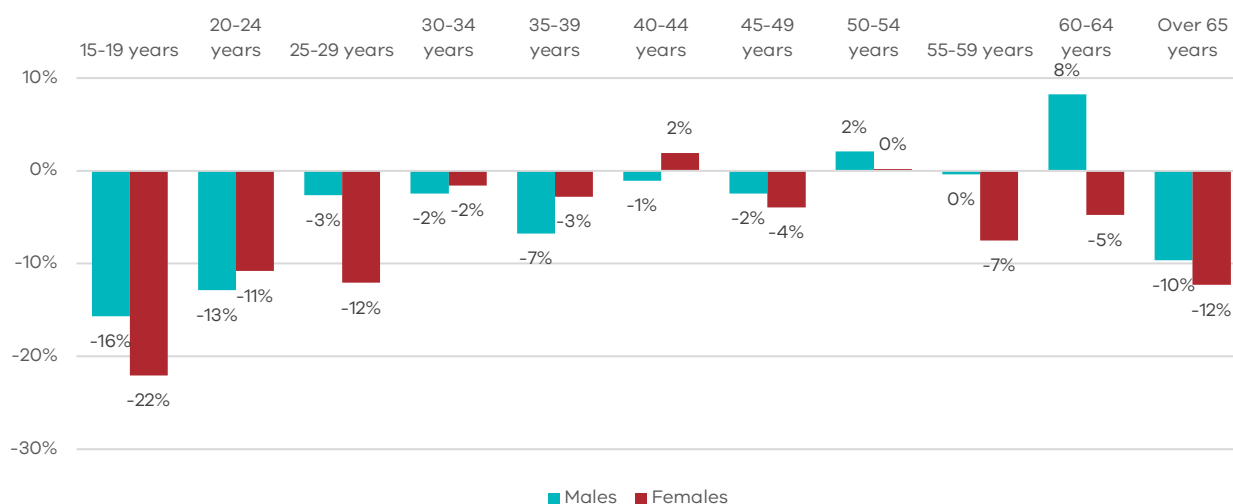

Source: Australian Bureau of Statistics; Reserve Bank of Australia.

High levels of underemployment are likely to make searching for a job and returning to work that much more difficult for unemployed individuals – as businesses are more likely to increase the hours worked by existing employees as the economy recovers, rather than advertising roles and hiring new workers. This, more than ever, underscores the importance of engaging in training, so that students are able to maintain and further develop their skills, and improve their attractiveness to potential employers.

IMPACTS OF COVID-19 BY COHORT

Women and young people have been disproportionately affected by job losses in recent months (Figure 3). This is largely because women and young people were more likely to be employed in the industries that were hardest hit by COVID-19 (such as Accommodation and Food Services, or Arts and Recreation), and more likely to have been employed on a part-time or casual basis.

Fig. 3 Change in number of people employed in Victoria, by age group and gender (February versus July 2020)

Source: Australian Bureau of Statistics.

Unemployment, particularly for young people who are entering the labour market for the first time, can lead to long-term scarring effects, including persistently lower earnings and lower self-reported life satisfaction. History shows that youth unemployment is often the slowest to recover to normal levels – as young people are less likely to have built employer- or industry-specific knowledge, general work skills and connections – making them less attractive hires.

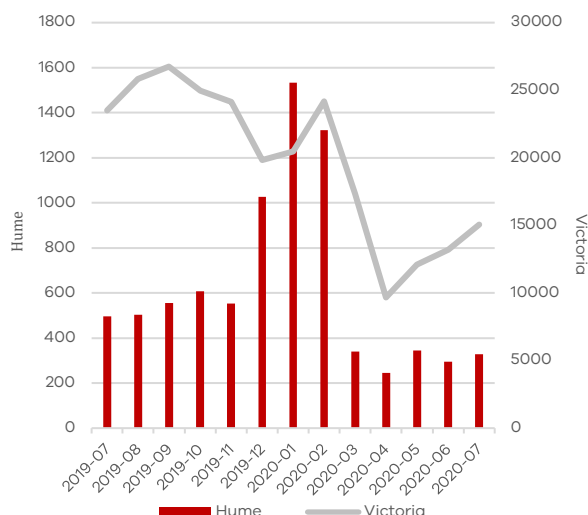

For unemployed young people and women, continued engagement in training may help mitigate these scarring effects. Training will help individuals continue to develop and deepen skills that will make them more employable, when businesses begin to hire again. Training will also increase the productive potential of the broader economy, which will help facilitate Victoria's economic recovery.

ADVERTISING EMPLOYERS AND JOBS IN HUME

There are some signs that the labour market is beginning to stabilise in Hume, with the number of job ads continuing to improve from their lowest point, in April, and the number of Victorians receiving JobSeeker decreasing (Figure 4).

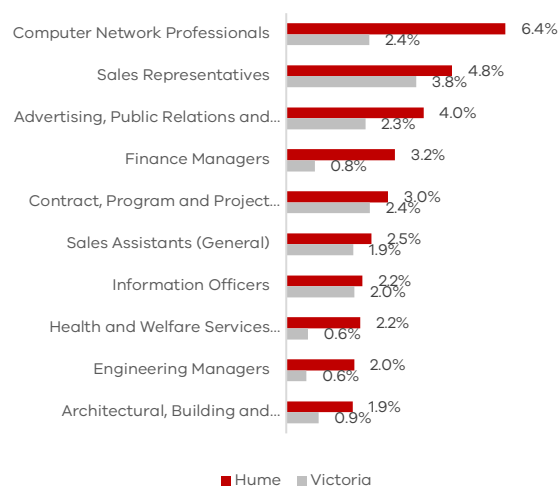

Figure 5 includes occupations supplied by VET graduates that were most commonly advertised within Hume over the 12 months to June 2020. Each occupation's share of total advertised job vacancies in Victoria is included for context. Note that some of these occupations are supplied by both VET and higher education graduates, for example, Accountants.

Fig. 5 Advertised vacancies (12 months to June 2020)

The following companies and organisations have recorded the largest number of job postings in the Hume region in the 12 months ending June 2020 (ordered alphabetically). The data is based on internet vacancies only and, as a result, may not reflect all job openings over the period or which organisations are the largest overall employers. For example, there may be large employers who have not advertised significant numbers of jobs over the last period, because they have low staff turnover. Apprentices are often employed by small businesses and thus their employers are unlikely to be represented below. It should be noted that the top advertising employers may recruit for a range of roles with different qualification requirements.

REGIONAL TRAINING DELIVERY

Table 2 lists courses with the highest number of government-funded commencements in the Hume region in 2019 along with comparative figures for 2018 and 2017. Training providers should consider the employment requirements of the region in proposing their Program Delivery Plans.

Notes:

Only courses included on the Funded Course List 2021 are listed. Commencement data includes commencements in superseded courses.

Throughout 2018 six course caps were in place to account for significant supply to the labour market from previous years. These caps were lifted in 2019 and reflect normal settings for these courses. The following courses were capped throughout 2018: Certificate III in Early Childhood Education and Care, Diploma of Early Childhood Education and Care, Diploma of Screen and Media, Certificate III in Health Services Assistance, Certificate IV in Competitive Systems and Practices and Certificate III in Civil Construction Plant Operations.

3: Industry view

Almost all industries have been affected by job losses over the last few months, particularly those that rely on physical proximity – and were therefore most affected by restrictions and social distancing measures between February and May 2020 (Figure 9). Even industries with large public sector workforces (such as public administration and safety, and health care and social assistance) have not been immune to job losses. Further, this data does not fully capture the impact of COVID-19 and the second wave of cases and restrictions, and represents activity across regional Victoria as a whole, rather than the specific region.

REGIONAL INDUSTRY RECOVERY PATHS

In looking forward to the economic recovery from COVID-19, different industries within the Hume region are likely to recover at different speeds, depending on their reliance on key recovery drivers.

Table 3 Hume industry recovery paths

	Hume industries	Hume employment (2019) and training (top 3 courses in 2019)	Commentary
Less affected / More resilient  Sectors that have been relatively less affected or more resilient	Mining	350 workers  There was no training activity in Hume in qualifications related to this industry in 2019.	Small sector in Hume which is relatively stable and insulated from the impact of COVID-19.
	Public Administration and Safety	7,100 workers  Certificate III in Public Safety (SES Operations)  Certificate II in Security Operations  Diploma of Community Services	Employment in public administration and safety is stable and largely unaffected by COVID-19. This region has two corrections facilities (Beechworth Correctional Centre and Dhurringile Prison) and Bushfire Recovery Victoria Community Hubs in Towong and Alpine Shire.
Bounce back 	Administrative and Support Services	2,800 workers  Certificate III in Horticulture  Certificate II in Cleaning  Certificate III in Arboriculture	Travel agency and tour arrangement services have been significantly affected by travel restrictions and are likely to recover slowly. However, other parts of the sector such as building cleaning, pest control, and packaging are less impacted and are likely to recover faster once restrictions are lifted.

	Hume industries	Hume employment (2019) and training (top 3 courses in 2019)	Commentary
Sectors likely to recover quickly once restrictions are relaxed	Agriculture, Forestry and Fishing	15,950 workers	Agriculture is a significant employer in Hume. Dairy, beef, lamb, hay and wool are among the region's greatest outputs, many of which are designated for the export market. The region also produces most of Victoria's pears. Weak global demand for could have a negative impact, however, some producers are pivoting to domestic markets, and federal government measures (e.g. freight support) will support recovery.
		Certificate III in Agriculture
		Certificate II in Agriculture
		Certificate II in Rural Operations
	Construction	9,600 workers	Construction sites remain open in Hume, and government projects such as the Shepparton Corridor Upgrade and Goulbourn Murry Water Connections Project continue to provide employment opportunities. In Hume, the industry will benefit from the rebuilding of properties destroyed by the bushfires.
		Certificate III in Civil Construction Plant Operations
		Certificate III in Civil Construction
		Certificate III in Carpentry
	Education and Training	10,700 workers	Kindergartens, schools, training providers and universities have been temporarily affected by restrictions, but not all have been able to transition partially or fully to remote learning. Employment should recover quickly as activity is strongly linked to population size, and as those out-of-work look to re-skill to support recovery.
		Certificate IV in Education Support
		Certificate IV in Training and Assessment
		Certificate III in Education Support
	Electricity, Gas, Water and Waste Services	2,000 workers	Demand for utilities, and therefore employment in the sector, remain largely fixed. Restrictions on the manufacturing sector are expected to lower the demand somewhat for utilities. However this will likely be countered by an increase in household consumption as individuals work from home. Over the longer-term, the Ovens Murray and Goulburn Regional Partnership's Hume Renewable Energy Strategy aims to partner with businesses to identify and adopt renewable energy technology in the region, which may encourage growth in solar and wind energy-related occupations.
		There was no training activity in Hume in qualifications related to this industry in 2019.
	Financial and Insurance Services	2,000 workers	The region faced double setbacks from the bushfires and now Covid-19 restrictions. Recovery should follow a similar pattern in line with the broader economy and as consumer and business confidence returns, although perhaps over a longer timeline.
		Diploma of Grain Management
	Health Care and Social Assistance	18,250 workers	While additional resources and staff are required in aged care facilities and hospitals to stop the spread of COVID-19, childcare services are being impacted by social distancing policies and parents keeping their children at home. Employment in this sector is likely to recover quickly, as activity is strongly linked to population growth, demographics and government priorities (mental health, aged care, family violence).
		Certificate III in Allied Health Assistance
		Certificate III in Health Services Assistance
		Certificate III in Individual Support
	Information Media and Telecommunications	400 workers	This is a small industry in the region. However, regional media companies are facing dropping advertising revenues and suspending print titles, closing presses and reducing their employment. Television and film production have also been halted due to social distancing restrictions.
		Certificate II in Electrotechnology (Career Start)
		Certificate III in Screen and Media
		Certificate II in Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander Cultural Arts

	Hume industries	Hume employment (2019) and training (top 3 courses in 2019)	Commentary
	Manufacturing	13,850 workers Certificate III in Engineering - Fabrication Trade Certificate IV in Engineering Certificate II in Engineering Studies	This region has strong food, wood and paper processing industries, including several large food processing companies. Parts of manufacturing have been impacted by a restricted global supply chain impacting the availability of inputs, and weaker global demand. There may be a pivot towards greater reliance on local (rather than international) supply chains that creates employment over time.
	Other Services	5,200 workers Certificate II in Automotive Vocational Preparation Certificate III in Heavy Commercial Vehicle Mechanical Technology Certificate II in Engineering Studies	Demand for these services (particularly personal care) has fallen in the wake of Stage 3 restrictions as they rely on physical proximity. Demand for these services is likely to bounce back relatively quickly as restrictions ease, however more cautionary discretionary spending by businesses and individuals could slow recovery.
	Professional, Scientific and Technical Services	5,300 workers Certificate II in Animal Studies Certificate IV in Veterinary Nursing Certificate IV in Engineering	This is a small but growing industry. Fewer professional and legal services may be required as businesses seek to lower discretionary costs to preserve cash. However, many professional services in this region relate to the care of livestock, which remain business critical. Architectural and engineering firms may benefit from continued investment from government on major infrastructure projects.
	Retail Trade	14,300 workers Certificate III in Retail Certificate III in Warehousing Operations Certificate III in Heavy Commercial Vehicle Mechanical Technology	Bushfires at the start of the year, Stage 3 restrictions for Hume, weak consumer confidence, and lower tourism numbers all are significantly impacting on employment. While some buyers are moving to online shopping, the recovery of retail will depend on how quickly household incomes and the economy more broadly recovers.
	Transport, Postal and Warehousing	6,000 workers Certificate III in Driving Operations Certificate III in Civil Construction Plant Operations Certificate III in Logistics	Hume is strategically located for a strong transport industry. The border closures have complicated logistics, however, this industry plays an important role in moving agricultural products to market and for export. While the sector itself is considered essential, lower global demand for products transported may impact on employment in the sector.
	Wholesale Trade	3,450 workers Certificate IV in Agribusiness Certificate II in Meat Processing (Abattoirs) Certificate III in Meat Processing (Retail Butcher)	Parts of this industry may be negatively affected by the reduced production of inputs from other countries, and weak foreign demand may also affect agricultural wholesaling. Recent restrictions on meat processing activity may also reduce output and therefore wholesaling. However, employment in the sector is likely to recover quickly as both local and international demand returns to normal.
Delayed recovery  Sectors likely to recover slowly	Accommodation and Food Services	8,950 workers Certificate II in Kitchen Operations Certificate III in Commercial Cookery Certificate III in Hospitality	Employment in this industry is highly dependent on tourism and visitor spending. The region has significant alpine and wine-growing tourism sectors. This industry was initially hit with bushfires and COVID-19 restrictions have now slowed the flow of visitors. Further, this industry is likely to be slow to recover with domestic and international travel restrictions in place.

Hume industries	Hume employment (2019) and training (top 3 courses in 2019)	Commentary
Arts and Recreation Services	1,500 workers Certificate III in Sport and Recreation Certificate III in Performance Horse Certificate III in Conservation and Land Management	Due to social distancing most facilities such as cinemas, recreation areas, sporting venues, and the like have closed and will remain closed for some time. The ski fields lost nearly the entire season due to COVID-19 restrictions. As this industry is similarly highly reliant on tourism and visitor spending, there is likely to be low employment growth and demand.
Rental, Hiring and Real Estate Services	2,300 workers Certificate IV in Property Services (Real Estate) Certificate IV in Agribusiness	Population growth, to slow due to lower levels of interstate and overseas migration to Victoria, and a fall in consumer confidence, will reduce demand for real estate services. However, property loss due to the bushfires may increase demand for real estate services. Tourism numbers are likely to remain low for some time and reduce demand for motor vehicle hire, and lower agricultural output may reduce farm equipment hire.

4: Occupations in demand and skills required for Victoria

The majority of occupations have experienced declines in employment since February 2020, with those reliant on physical proximity – such as Hospitality Workers, and Sales Assistants and Salespersons who likely work in accommodation, food services and bricks and mortar retail – most affected (Figure 10).

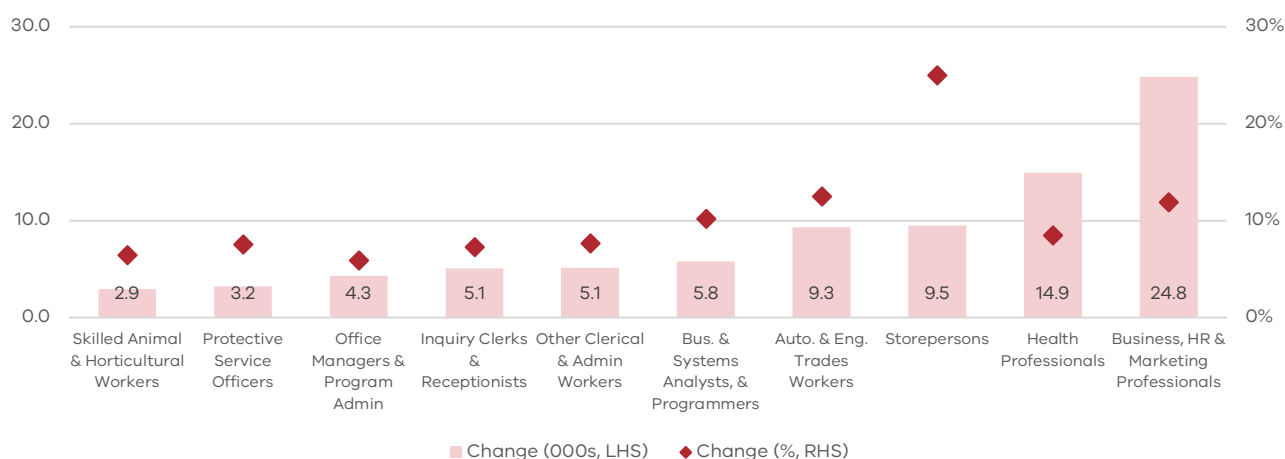

Fig. 10 Top ten occupations for job losses in Victoria (February 2020 versus May 2020)

Source: Australian Bureau of Statistics.

However, there are some occupations that have grown in size since February, such as Storepersons, who receive, handle and despatch goods in stores and warehouses, as businesses have quickly moved to online retailing and contactless pick-up services, and Health Professionals as hospitals prepared for a potential influx of COVID-19 patients (Figure 11).

Fig. 11 Top ten occupations for job growth in Victoria (February 2020 versus May 2020)

Source: Australian Bureau of Statistics.

The recovery paths of different occupations will vary. They will be driven by the recovery paths of different industries (as discussed in Section 3), as well as occupation specific-drivers. While the employment and training activity outlook for each of the occupations that are aligned to government objectives are described in Table 5, some of the key recovery drivers may include:

- A shift towards more Storepersons, Logistics Clerks and fewer Sales Assistants and Salespersons as online shopping becomes a norm for more households.
- Lower demand for tourism and travel (both domestic and international) dampens industry need for Gallery, Museum and Tour Guides, Tourism and Travel Advisors, and Hotel Service Managers.

- Greater resilience for occupations that are tied to broader demographic trends, such as Aged and Disabled Carers, and the existing population size, such as School Teachers.
- The ability to undertake a job flexibly or remotely may allow an occupation to recover more quickly, as the relaxation of restrictions is not a precondition for business operation (for example, a Bookkeeper working from home, versus a Waiter or Barista working in a café).

Explanatory notes:

- Australian and New Zealand Standard Classification of Occupations (ANZSCO): ANZSCO is a classification used to organise data collected about occupations. Definitions are based on the skill level and specialisation usually needed to perform the tasks of the specific occupation, or of most occupations in the group.
- VET related occupations: Occupations for which VET training supplies all or some new entrants, or VET training is undertaken to improve specific or generic skills for existing workers or new entrants in those jobs.
- State-wide priorities: Courses aligned to the National Disability Insurance Scheme (NDIS), family violence (FV) and infrastructure (Infra) workforces are annotated. As high profile government initiatives, related job openings may increase more than the base anticipated employment demand across Victoria. Course alignment to government priority areas is reviewed on an annual basis to ensure currency.
- Apprenticeship enrolment type available: Courses marked with “App” are available as apprenticeships. Training delivery aligned to these apprenticeships is encouraged, irrespective of whether anticipated requirements for general (i.e. non-apprenticeship) courses aligned to the job are stable or decreasing.

OCCUPATIONS ALIGNED TO GOVERNMENT OBJECTIVES

Table 4 presents the training demand outlook for Victoria, for occupations that are closely aligned with government priorities areas. This outlook should be used with care, given the uncertainty and evolving COVID-19 situation.

In proposing Program Delivery Plans, training providers should assess which courses on their scope, within the ANZSCO Unit Groups, will best service the occupational training needs detailed below. Courses can appear under more than one ANZSCO Unit Group.

5: Courses for community and industry needs

Table 6 includes Foundation Courses, Vocational Certificate of Applied Learning (VCAL) and Victorian Certificate of Education (VCE) courses, and other courses that do not closely align to the ANZSCO Unit Group occupations detailed in Table 4 or Table 5, but are integral to Victorian community and industry needs. Training providers should also consider these courses in proposing their Program Delivery Plans.

Although courses included in this list may, on face value, appear to be aligned to an occupation, they do not provide direct pathways for students seeking to gain employment in a specific occupation, but may support upskilling for people already employed within a particular occupation. In addition, they:

- are generally courses with minimal units
- may be introductory or preparatory in nature
- may not be related to a specific occupation.

Note: Only courses included on the Funded Course List 2021 are listed.
